myRhinoplasty London

Wednesday 7th, Thursday 8th and Friday 9th
November 2012

The Royal College of Surgeons of England
London

Introduction

myRhinoplasty London is a three day meeting designed to enable the participant to enhance/heighten their understanding of nasal deformity and the options and rationale for contemporary correction. Emphasis will be placed on both surgical techniques and displaying the practical knowledge required to optimise rhinoplasty craftsmanship. The participant will benefit from a comprehensive presentation of surgical videos. The goals are to present from an international, multispecialty faculty the highest standards of intellectual enquiry leading to contemporary nasal analysis and planning, and the art of surgical mastery. The meeting will facilitate reflection and application to the individual participants' practice. We will also look to the future and a more profound aesthetic understanding of the nose in the context of the whole face.

Year 1 focuses on the lateral profile.*

Module 1 – the foundation of contemporary rhinoplasty

The participant will be able to:

- Develop their ideal system for nasal analysis and photography
- Recognise and describe the nuances of aesthetic and functional nasal anatomy
- Diagnose and describe the difficult case and to classify cases to match their level of surgical experience
- Explain the surgical steps for all the approaches that enable visualisation and contemporary modification of nasal anatomy

Module 2 – year 1 focus: the lateral profile

The participant will:

- Feel confident in listing all of the surgical techniques and options for correction of deformities of the lateral profile
- Watch video presentation and be able to describe from incision to closure the technical details of these techniques
- Describe the level of complexity of these techniques
- Explain the advantages and disadvantages and risks vs. benefits of these techniques and their relationship to surgical experience following panel based discussion
- Vote on key profileplasty techniques after listening to formal, competitive debate by world leading rhinoplasty proponents
- Take part in small group case-based tutorials and explain their surgical plans with reference to their surgical experience

Module 3 – the 4th dimension

The participant will be able to:

- Explain the aesthetic relationship of the nose and the face
- Describe modern developments in visualisation, instrumentation and imaging
